

Pronto Offers Introductory Pricing

The only certainty about the future is uncertainty. What is the best way for you to manage during these uncertain times, while still positioning your company for the future?

- Increase productivity now and in the future
- Cut costs immediately but not at the expense of increased costs later
- Build your business to increase returns during the downturn; it will return many multiples in the upturn
- Take advantage of today's lower costs and receive more value for your money

e2Value's Pronto™ can help you meet all of these objectives and help strengthen your company for long-term success.

You receive a complete property report that includes:

- Data scoring
- Images
- An insurance valuation
- Risk mapping

Pronto makes all this information available in one place. This saves you the time – and the cost – of searching multiple sources, which increases your productivity and lowers your costs today.

Build a data warehouse of property reports for the future. Pronto stores all the information provided about a property as part of the valuation. At any time this information can be retrieved and updated.
